Is your IT community name big enough?

There are only a few programmers, recruitment agencies want thousands of dollars, work is not done... Is it familiar to you? What if programmers just knew about your company, and when they started to look for work, your company would simply come to their minds? And for a price that everyone can afford, even in the long run? Maybe you're looking for us...

For 10 years now, we have been accumulating thousands of programming lessons for the public on ict.social, and thanks to them, there are already 100.000 programmers on our social platform. With us, you will be on the eyes of thousands of them every day and build your brand exactly where it is needed - month after month. Everyone will know that you are the company that is interested in programmers and helps them.

Thanks to our community, finding new employees will be much easier for you:

Your company + Awareness in IT community = Natural interest of programmers

There is NEVER ENOUGH programmers, right?

- 100 thousand programmers monthly
- More than 2000 programming lessons in english, consisting of tens of thousands pages of educational text
- New lessons every day, we train hundreds of people online every month
- Professional discussions, chats, competitions
